Do you really know the Mass?

Communion Rite

With the conclusion of the Eucharistic Prayer, we begin another part of the "Liturgy of the Eucharist" and that is the communion rite. So far we have experienced the taking of the bread (the presentation of the gifts) and the blessing of it (the Eucharistic Prayer). Now we prepare to break and share, but first we join together in the words that Jesus himself gave us. In many parishes people hold hands during the Lord's Prayer. This is not a gesture dictated by the liturgy, but one that has arisen from the people themselves and their feeling that this expresses the unity indicated by the words "Our Father." Many parishes invite the people to use the same gesture as the presider, with hands upraised and open, about shoulder height. This is called the "orans" or "prayer" position.

El Rito de la Comunión

Con la conclusión de la Plegaria Eucarística, empezamos otra parte de la "Liturgia de la Eucaristía" que es el Rito de la Comunión. Hasta este momento, hemos tenido la experiencia de tomar el pan (la Presentación de las Ofrendas) y su bendición (la Plegaria Eucarística). Ahora nos preparamos a partirlo y compartirlo, pero primero, nos unimos en las palabras que Jesús mismo nos dio. En muchas iglesias las personas se toman de las manos durante la Oración del Señor. Éste no es un gesto que dicta la Liturgia, sino ha surgido de las propias personas y de su sensación de que esto expresa la unidad indicada por las palabras "Padre Nuestro". Muchas parroquias invitan a las personas a utilizar el mismo gesto que el sacerdote, con las manos abiertas y levantadas, a la altura de los hombros. A ésta se le denomina la posición de "orans" u "oración".
